Greetings!

It is that time of year, where I can wear flip flops one day and put my winter boots on soon after. The days are getting longer and that is all that matters! As we come out of the mildest winter ever, start thinking about how to increase your social connections if you have been a home body.

- Spend more quality time with family and friends.
- Join a group, club, or class related to an interest or hobby (books, art, sports).
- Spend time with others in nature.
- Express gratitude to others.
- Volunteer with an organization.
- Get involved in your community.
- Expand and diversify your social network by making a new acquaintance or friend, especially someone who might be different from you.
- Provide social support to others, such as listening to a friend dealing with a problem.
- Get to know your neighbors.
- If you cannot be with others in person, substitute a phone call for screen time.

These are all good things to do to remain a part of your community and make it a better place. Think of one small thing you can do. Make a plan and act!

Until next time,

Carrie

The MIND Diet

Submitted by Colleen Brewer, Dementia Care Specialist
– ADRC of the North

The MIND diet was created to help prevent dementia and slow brain function issues that can happen with age. The diet encourages eating vegetables, berries, nuts, whole grains, olive oil, fish, beans, poultry, and wine. These foods contain many nutrients that promote good brain health, possibly by reducing free radicals, inflammation, and the formation of beta-amyloid plaques.

Early research shows that following the MIND diet can lower the risk of Alzheimer's disease and slow the loss of brain function over time. However, more research is needed to understand the diet's effects.

Because the MIND diet is a combination of the Mediterranean and DASH diets, future research will probably show that it offers other health benefits that are associated with these two diets. But for now, if you're looking for a way of eating that focuses on maintaining brain health as you age, the MIND diet may be for you.

10 foods to eat on the MIND diet

Here are the 10 foods the MIND diet encourages:

- Green, leafy vegetables: Aim for six or more servings per week. This includes kale, spinach, cooked greens, and salads. Check with your health care provider first if you are on blood thinners.
- All other vegetables: Try to eat another vegetable in addition to the green leafy vegetables at least once per day. It's best to choose non-starchy vegetables because they provide a lot of nutrients for a low number of calories.
- Berries: Eat berries at least twice per week. Berries such as strawberries, blueberries, raspberries, and blackberries all have antioxidant benefits.

- Nuts: Try to get five or more servings of nuts each week. The creators of the MIND diet don't specify what kind of nuts to eat, so eat a variety to get different kinds of nutrients.
- Olive oil: Use olive oil as your main cooking and salad dressing oil.
- Whole grains: Aim for at least three servings daily. Choose whole grains like oatmeal, quinoa, brown rice, whole wheat pasta, and 100% whole wheat bread.
- Fish: Eat fish at least once per week. It is best to choose fatty fish such as salmon, sardines, trout, tuna, and mackerel for their high amounts of omega-3 fatty acids.
- Beans: Include beans at least four times per week. This category includes kidney beans, black beans, pinto beans, red beans, chickpeas, lentils, and soybeans.
- Poultry: Try to eat chicken or turkey at least twice per week. Note that fried chicken is not encouraged on the MIND diet.
- Wine: Aim for no more than one glass daily. Moderation is important. Both red and white wine may benefit your brain.
- If you're unable to consume the target number of servings, don't quit the MIND diet altogether. Research has shown that following the MIND diet even to a moderate degree is associated with a reduced risk of Alzheimer's disease and cognitive impairment.

When you're following the diet, you can eat more than just these 10 foods. However, the more you stick to the diet, the better your results may be.

5 foods to avoid on the MIND diet

The MIND diet recommends limiting the following five foods:

- Butter and margarine: Try to eat less than 1 tablespoon (about 14 grams) daily. Instead, try using olive oil as your primary cooking fat and dipping your bread in olive oil with herbs.
- Cheese: The MIND diet recommends eating cheese less than once per week.
- Red meat: Aim for no more than three servings per week. This category includes all beef, pork, lamb, and products made from these meats.

- Fried food: The MIND diet highly discourages fried food, especially the kind from fast-food restaurants. Limit eating them to less than once per week.

Pastries and sweets: This includes most of the processed snack foods and desserts you may think of — ice cream, cookies, brownies, snack cakes, doughnuts, candy, and more. Try to limit these to no more than four times per week.

The MIND diet is a healthy diet and can be tweaked to help with other conditions, such as weight loss, heart disease and controlling diabetes. The MIND diet offers variety and moderation, which are the keys to any successful eating program.

MIND Diet Recipe

The MIND Diet recommends dining on fish at least once a week, so add fish tacos to your dinner rotation for a light, easy meal. Try the recipe below with local Lake Superior whitefish or walleye! Delicious!!

Fish Tacos

This recipe is featured in The Mind Diet Plan & Cookbook by Julie Andrews.

For the slaw:

1/4 cup lime zest and juice
3 tablespoons avocado or canola oil
1 tablespoons honey
1/2 teaspoon kosher or sea salt
3 cups shredded green, red or Napa cabbage or coleslaw mix

For tacos:

12 6-inch corn tortillas, toasted
2 medium ripe avocados, peeled and sliced

Directions:

In a glass bowl, whisk together lime zest and juice, oil, honey and salt. Add cabbage and toss to coat. Refrigerate. In a small bowl, whisk together chili powder, cumin, salt, smoked paprika and black pepper. Rub spice mixture on the fish fillets. Heat oil in a large skillet to medium-high heat. Sauté fish fillets 2-3 minutes per side, until it flakes easily with a fork. Serve fish on corn tortillas with slaw and avocado slices.

For the fish:

1-1/2 tablespoons chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon kosher or sea salt
1/2 teaspoon smoked paprika
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1-1/2 pounds white fish, skins removed
2 tablespoons avocado or canola oil

Submitted by: Marianne Johnson, Elder Benefits Specialist

We are happy to announce that Bayfield County Department of Human Services (DHS) is once again distributing the Senior Farmers Market Nutrition Program (SFMNP) vouchers to low-income seniors this summer.

The goal of this program is to help seniors improve their diets with fresh produce while giving local farmers more business and adding support to the local economy.

To be eligible for the program, you must be a Bayfield County resident, 60 or older (55 or older if you are Native American), and at or below 185% of the Federal Poverty Limit (FPL). The income criteria for 2024 is:

- For a one-person household, 185% FPL is $2,322/month.
- For a two-person household, 185% FPL is $3,152/month.

Income is self-declared; you do not need to show verification of income.

If eligible, you will receive one set of vouchers worth $45. In 2024, vouchers will be issued/person.

Vouchers can be spent at participating farmers markets and farmstands to buy locally grown produce.

All vouchers will be distributed on a "first come first served" basis, based on when the signed and completed eligibility form is received by the Bayfield County DHS.

After all vouchers have been distributed people will be notified if they are on a waiting list (again in order that the completed forms are received) and will be updated if they will be sent vouchers later.

If you have any questions, or would like an application please contact:

OLDER AMERICANS MONTH

POWERED BY CONNECTION: MAY 2024

Established in 1963, Older Americans Month (OAM) is celebrated every May. Led by a federal agency, the Administration for Community Living (ACL), OAM is a time to recognize older Americans' contributions, highlight aging trends, and reaffirm commitments to serving the older adults in our communities.

This year's theme, "Powered by Connection," focuses on the profound impact that meaningful connections have on the well-being and health of older adults — a relationship underscored by the U.S. Surgeon General's Advisory on the Healing Effects of Social Connection and Community.

"It's not just about having someone to chat with. It's about the transformative potential of community engagement in enhancing mental, physical, and emotional well-being. By recognizing and nurturing the role that connectedness plays, we can mitigate issues like loneliness, ultimately promoting healthy aging for more Americans.

How can community groups, businesses, and organizations mark OAM?

- ◆ Spread the word about the mental, physical, and emotional health benefits of social connection through professional and personal networks.
- ◆ Encourage social media followers to share their thoughts and stories of connection using hashtag #PoweredByConnection to inspire and uplift.
- ◆ Promote opportunities to engage, like cultural activities, recreational programs, and interactive virtual events.
- ◆ Connect older adults with local services, such as counseling, that can help them overcome obstacles to meaningful relationships and access to support systems.
- ◆ Host connection-centric events or programs where older adults can serve as mentors to peers, younger adults, or youths.

What can individuals do to connect?

- ◆ Invite more connection into your life by finding a new passion, joining a social club, taking a class, or trying new activities in your community.
- Stay engaged in your community by giving back through volunteering, working, teaching, or mentoring.
- Invest time with people to build new relationships and discover deeper connections with your family, friends, colleagues, or neighbors.
